FIFTEEN CENTS

Costly rules needless?

State study could trim fat off of education

by GLORIA DAVIS

Many critics of some of the costly state mandated rules and regulations foisted upon the public school system, were probably as happy as Antioch Grade School Dist. Supt. Don Skidmore and many of his colleagues were when they were notified that the State Board of Education has been studying these rules.

The board has released a study titled "Phase One Mandates Studies Final Staff Recommendations," Skidmore told the Antioch Grade School Board of Education, at its last meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 15.

He said that the study revealed that, in many cases, these regulations were initiated as a result of pressure groups influencing the legislature to act on things they perceived to be problematic at the time.

Skidmore gave two examples of these types of rules. First the high school requirement of driver education courses, so that the drivers on our roads would be better and safer drivers when so trained.

According to the school superintendent, "Not so. Time and statistics have proven that there is no appreciable difference in the driving records of those who take drivers ed in high school and those who learned to drive by some other method.

Skidmore also cited the many hours of physical education required to be given in our schools and paid for by the taxpayers (30 minutes per day).

"The original purpose was to make our children less flabby and more physically fit," said Skidmore.

Again, wrong! Today's student is no more physically fit than their mom and dad were at their age.

Meanwhile, back at the bank, countless dollars have been spent with problems either showing little or no improvement.

"Did you know that although we are mandated to teach such subjects as physical education, nowhere are we required to teach some of the basics such as reading," said Skidmore.

The next steps in trimming the fat off of our educational system will be many public hearings and then communication with the legislators as to the outcome.

Skidmore estimates, if the study's results are to be politically acted upon, the process will probably take three to four years before any important changes are made.

Another part of the study suggests a mandate for periodic testing to see, not only if certain classes should be taught in the public schools, but also if the teaching of any approved subject is accomplishing anything.

ACHS board hires three special education teachers

The Antioch High School Board has hired three county special ed teachers to run its learning disorders program next year.

ACHS is taking over that program from the Special Education District of Lake County (SEDOL) in order to save money. The board hired Katherine Checchin, Marilyn Yates and Lori Arends for the 1983-84 school year. The three are already assigned to ACHS by SEDOL, but will work directly for the school next year.

The remaining special ed programs, including classes for the visually impaired, behavior disorders and mentally retarded, will continue to be administrated by SEDOL.

ACHS is expected to save a "considerable" amount of money by administrating the program itself, according to Supt. Warren Polley.

In other action, the school board approved the date of May 3 for the annual elementary and high school board and administration dinner in the high school cafeteria.

Joseph Legat Architects will prepare a life safety amendment and bid specifications for the removal of asbestos materials in the 1962 addition. The work must be done to be in compliance with federal regulations.

The firm of David Cain Ltd. was approved to conduct the required independent audit for the 1982-83 fiscal year.

Kenneth Wierschem, business manager, reported on an exploratory meeting he attended on the possibility of forming a Lake County School Districts microcomputer consortium.

ACHS will conduct a preparation course for the ACT tests starting Monday, Feb. 28 at 7 p.m.

Wnek faces felony charge for hit-run

A charge of leaving the scene of an accident has been dropped against Edward Wnek in connection with the death of Eric Ritchie on Oct. 23.

According to the Asst. State's Atty. Peter Trobe, the charge was dropped in order to pursue a more severe charge of reckless homicide.

Wnek, Round Lake Beach, has been charged with the hit and run death of Ritchie, 14, Salem. Ritchie was reportedly walking on the shoulder of Grass Lake Rd. with two friends when he was struck by Wnek's car, which had veered off the road onto the shoulder, according to a witness in Wnek's car.

No hearing date has been set for Wnek on the possible new charge, Trobe said.

Miller to talk to Chamber on crime halt

The program planned by Chairman Dan Dugenske for the first general membership meeting of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Crime Stoppers will be presented by Antioch Police Chief Chuck Miller and Lt. Ron Hauri of the Waukegan Police Dept.

Thursday, March 3, is the date. The Country House on Rte. 173 is the place. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 7:30 p.m. and the program is set to go on at 8:30 p.m.

The charge for dinner is $7.50 per person and tickets are available through the Chamber office. For reservations call (312)395-2233. Deadline for reservations is Tuesday, March 1.

The Crime Stoppers program, has proved very successful in Waukegan, where it originated, and other Lake County communities where citizens have joined with the local law enforcement agencies to help deter crime and bring about the apprehension of criminals.

Doctor, artist, pianist describes 1983 VIP

"When you like a community, you just naturally want to become involved," says Dr. James Kopriva, Antioch's VIP for 1983.

Kopriva, chosen by the people of Antioch, will be honored at the 15th Annual VIP Dinner-Dance on Saturday, March 12 at St. Peter's Social Center.

Kopriva has lived in Antioch since 1952, and the accomplished painter and pianist has been active in just about every community organization.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, he interned at St. Francis Hospital in Evanston, then spent two years in India in the Army Medical Corps.

From there he practiced in Evanston and Rogers Park, until responding to a plea from Dr. Breakstone, who in 1952 had too many patients for him to handle alone.

"So I responded and here I am," Kopriva said. A general practitioner, Kopriva at 64 still keeps morning office hours and has no plans to retire. "I think I would go a little nuts if I didn't have something to do," he said.

When the doctor isn't practicing medicine, he's painting watercolors or playing the piano. His paintings grace the State Bank of Antioch and the University of Illinois and have been on exhibit in Waukegan and Chicago.

Although he's been active in community organizations, including the Lions Club and Antioch Township Library Board, what he's enjoyed most is planning village-wide variety and entertainment shows. "Those shows and pageants were really fun," he said, recalling the Civil War Centennial and the Bicentennial celebration.

He has also been on the board of directors of the State Bank of Antioch for 28 years and was president of the staff of Victory Memorial Hospital in 1970. He is still on the staff of that hospital.

Married to Nancy Kopriva, the doctor has three grown children, Phyllis, Chicago; Barbara Perrill, Mt. Prospect and James Jr., Oak Park.

Asked what he thought of being named Antioch's VIP, Kopriva said he was surprised. "It overwhelms me, actually. I'm very proud."

Fortin forgery arraignment postponed

The arraignment of Terri and Larry Fortin, Trevor, for charges of forgery and theft has been postponed until Tuesday, Feb. 22.

According to the Lake County State's Attorneys' office, the arraignment, originally scheduled for Feb. 17, was postponed because Terri's lawyer was unable to appear in court.

The Trevor couple was indicted by a Lake County Grand Jury Feb. 1 for forging checks and the theft of at least $11,000 from Antioch Savings and Loan.

Both Fortins had worked for the savings and loan.

Holliday glitters on bright Marriott cast

by GLORIA DAVIS

Take the American flag, this time both the northern and southern versions, add love of family, with a little youthful romance tossed in peppered with a little tragedy, set it all to music, and you have the combination long-loved by American theatergoers.

In the case of "Shenandoah," only the expert staging and choreography of Director David Bell and the fact that those involved with the Marriott Lincolshire Theater do everything in a first class way, could make this outdoor expansive story, not only feasible, but quite enjoyable, even when done in intimate theater-in-the-round surroundings.

The only thing missing was a Red Cross Lady passing out apple pie to the audience.

Actor-singer David Holliday's excellent emoting, crowned with a rich singing voice, also share the credit for giving Marriott's audiences another evening of good musical theatrics.

In fact the entire cast of Marriott's current melodic offering, turns in top notch performances in all areas, dramatic, terpsichorean and vocally. The last two enhanced, as usual, by the theater's terrific orchestra under the direction of Kevin Sites.

The opening number, where "Johnny Reb" and the "Yankee Blue-Bellies" face each other rhythmically sets the stage for the story of the Anderson family, who lead by their father, Holliday, decide to sit the Civil War out.

It's a patriotic Americana pace-setter, done well on a blank stage with just the use of slanted levels.

Jody Naymik, as the tomboyish Anderson daughter, uses her youthful exuberance and polished talent to steal a few scenes and is particularly outstanding with her rendition of "Over The Hill."

Add some rousing heel and toe stompin' dance numbers like "Next To Lovin'" and "It's A Boy," done by the Anderson boys, and the beautiful emotional refrains of "Pappa's Gonna Make It Alright," and "Meditation," and what was a rather boring movie becomes a fast moving musical play.

There's even some pathos when members of the Anderson family are killed and the realization that "no man is an island" hits.

I never cease to marvel at all of Marriott's thespians who are capable of never losing character despite the fact that the audience is practically in their laps.

Though the stage is empty for the most part, Marriott's expert, special effects technicians get their usual outstanding licks in. The burning of the train engine was especially notable.

'MORNING'S' HUMOROUS SCENE — At left, Ann Marie Cina tries to calm down spells had by Frank Greenwood in humorous scene of "Mornings At Seven," at PM&L Theater in Antioch.

The reviewer for the Lakeland Papers said the following about the P.M.&L. production: "P.M.&L.'s latest offering, "Morning's At

Seven," is a thoroughly enjoyable comedy. Each player was perfectly cast...The show's pace was fast and consistent and I was sorry to see a job so well done end."

Mental Health Assn. cotillion set for May

Cotillion plans were on the agenda at the Feb. 7 meeting of the Antioch Mental Health Assn.

The Cotillion will be held May 21 at the Abbey on Lake Geneva. "The Embers" will provide music for the after-dinner dancing. President

Delores Abderholden passed out tickets to the members in attendance. Posters were also passed out to members. Dorothy Teister, chairman of the Cotillion, announced that the deadline for reservations is May 17.

Annette Lubkeman reported that since there have been so many government cuts in special education that the Antioch Mental Health Association might wish to maintain teaching materials in a section of the library. Specialized games and developmental material would be a possibility.

The next meeting of the Antioch Mental Health Assn. will be held on Monday, May 2 at the home of President Delores Abderholden.

The Antioch Mental Health Assn. operates the Thrift Shop at 921 Main St., Antioch.

PERIODONTAL POCKETS

Question: A friend of mine is being treated for periodontal pockets. What are these, exactly?

Answer: If you look at a healthy tooth and its surrounding gum tissue, you see that the gum hugs the tooth the way a rolled collar hugs a neck. Now, if damaging bacteria move into the gum crevice and there's improper care or neglect, the tissue becomes irritated, pulls away from the tooth, and forms a periodontal pocket. These pockets are perfect breeding grounds for continued infection.

Unfortunately, cleansing tools such as toothbrush and floss can't reach into the deep pockets to keep them free of bacteria and toxins. For that reason, minor dental help may be needed to get rid of the pockets and make those areas accessible for cleaning.

Holliday glitters on bright Marriott cast

by GLORIA DAVIS

Take the American flag, this time both the northern and southern versions, add love of family, with a little youthful romance tossed in peppered with a little tragedy, set it all to music, and you have the combination long-loved by American theatergoers.

In the case of "Shenandoah," only the expert staging and choreography of Director David Bell and the fact that those involved with the Marriott Lincolshire Theater do everything in a first class way, could make this outdoor expansive story, not only feasible, but quite enjoyable, even when done in intimate theater-in-the-round surroundings.

The only thing missing was a Red Cross Lady passing out apple pie to the audience.

Actor-singer David Holliday's excellent emoting, crowned with a rich singing voice, also share the credit for giving Marriott's audiences another evening of good musical theatrics.

In fact the entire cast of Marriott's current melodic offering, turns in top notch performances in all areas, dramatic, terpsichorean and vocally. The last two enhanced, as usual, by the theater's terrific orchestra under the direction of Kevin Sites.

The opening number, where "Johnny Reb" and the "Yankee Blue-Bellies" face each other rhythmically sets the stage for the story of the Anderson family, who lead by their father, Holliday, decide to sit the Civil War out.

It's a patriotic Americana pace-setter, done well on a blank stage with just the use of slanted levels.

Jody Naymik, as the tomboyish Anderson daughter, uses her youthful exuberance and polished talent to steal a few scenes and is particularly outstanding with her rendition of "Over The Hill."

Add some rousing heel and toe stompin' dance numbers like "Next To Lovin'" and "It's A Boy," done by the Anderson boys, and the beautiful emotional refrains of "Pappa's Gonna Make It Alright," and "Meditation," and what was a rather boring movie becomes a fast moving musical play.

There's even some pathos when members of the Anderson family are killed and the realization that "no man is an island" hits.

I never cease to marvel at all of Marriott's thespians who are capable of never losing character despite the fact that the audience is practically in their laps.

Though the stage is empty for the most part, Marriott's expert, special effects technicians get their usual outstanding licks in. The burning of the train engine was especially notable.

'MORNING'S' HUMOROUS SCENE — At left, Ann Marie Cina tries to calm down spells had by Frank Greenwood in humorous scene of "Mornings At Seven," at PM&L Theater in Antioch.

'Morning' to give farewell show

The last two performances of P.M.&L Theatre's current production of "Morning's At Seven" will be given Friday and Saturday, Feb. 25 and 26.

Due to its popularity, reservations should be made at (312) 895-3055. This comedy hit won the 1980 Tony Award and has received critical acclaim wherever it has been performed.

The reviewer for the Lakeland Papers said the following about the P.M.&L. production: "P.M.&L.'s latest offering, "Morning's At

Seven," is a thoroughly enjoyable comedy. ...Each player was perfectly cast...The show's pace was fast and consistent and I was sorry to see a job so well done end."

Curtain time for this play is 8:30 p.m. Tickets are: $4 for adults; $3 for senior citizens; and $2 for students.

Dinner theatre packages are available with Raybom's on Hwy. 59 at (312) 356-3166 and with The Village Pub on Main St. at (312) 395-3373.

P.M.&L. is located at 877 Main St. in Antioch.

Mental Health Assn. cotillion set for May

Cotillion plans were on the agenda at the Feb. 7 meeting of the Antioch Mental Health Assn.

The Cotillion will be held May 21 at the Abbey on Lake Geneva. "The Embers" will provide music for the after-dinner dancing. President

Delores Abderholden passed out tickets to the members in attendance. Posters were also passed out to members. Dorothy Teister, chairman of the Cotillion, announced that the deadline for reservations is May 17.

Annette Lubkeman reported that since there have been so many government cuts in special education that the Antioch Mental Health Association might wish to maintain teaching materials in a section of the library. Specialized games and developmental material would be a possibility.

The next meeting of the Antioch Mental Health Assn. will be held on Monday, May 2 at the home of President Delores Abderholden.

The Antioch Mental Health Assn. operates the Thrift Shop at 921 Main St., Antioch.

PERIODONTAL POCKETS

Question: A friend of mine is being treated for periodontal pockets. What are these, exactly?

Answer: If you look at a healthy tooth and its surrounding gum tissue, you see that the gum hugs the tooth the way a rolled collar hugs a neck. Now, if damaging bacteria move into the gum crevice and there's improper care or neglect, the tissue becomes irritated, pulls away from the tooth, and forms a periodontal pocket. These pockets are perfect breeding grounds for continued infection.

Unfortunately, cleansing tools such as toothbrush and floss can't reach into the deep pockets to keep them free of bacteria and toxins. For that reason, minor dental help may be needed to get rid of the pockets and make those areas accessible for cleaning.

When I think about it

All propositions are losing ones

by GLORIA DAVIS

Well that does it! It just goes to show that there's no sense in being practical to save dollars and cents and it's nonsense to forgo luxuries by being sensitive to a possibility.

You'd think I would learn when the few times that I decided to be smart and get a jump on things have resulted in miserable failure.

You guessed it, I lost my head, believed what I read in the Farmer's Almanac; swallowed the prediction of that man who fortells winters by the number of rings around a certain tree; went along with the fishermen who judge what kind of winter weather is in store by how deep the fish are and was swayed by the thickness of the fur on local caterpillars.

I even believed the long-range predictions of our local weather experts, the guys who stick their hands out of a window of the radio station and tell you that it's raining.

So, instead of investing in an IRA when they were still paying 14 percent interest, I took what constituted my meager monetary reserve and bought a snowblower and a toasty warm fur coat so that I could get through the "worst winter in the last 100 years."

No need to belabor the results, but I have learned a few things. Snowblowers cannot drain water from a basement and fur coats and hot flashes don't mix when it's 40 degrees outside.

You're right, I should have learned when I bought my first car, an Edsel and when my husband and I got a good deal on our first home appliances in 1954, all made by Bendix and Philco, both of whom went out of business in 1955.

By the way we have two strikes against us, his first car was a Kaiser.

One would think we would get the smarts after we bought Goldblatts stock when it got cheap. Good thing we reevaluated that Alden's stock, even though we did buy a house full of furniture at Wicks.

There are comforting thoughts available though. We could be farmers with barns full of International Harvester equipment or bushel baskets full of produce waiting for canning in Ball jars that some family member sold for a nickel apiece at a yard sale.

You got it, we backed the Brewers and Miami.

FIFTY YEARS AGO: Feb. 23, 1933

The condition of Chicago's Mayor Anton Cermack, shot a week before by an assassin, was reported to be worsening.

A story in the Antioch News concerning cuts that could save the taxpayer money said that closing the University of Illinois would save each taxpayer approximately seven-tenths of a cent per year or the cost of one cigaret.

The Addison J. Felters celebrated their golden wedding anniversary and Sarah Emmons had a 95th birthday party.

THIRTY YEARS AGO, Feb. 19, 1953

Virginia Carney, local phone operator, was honored along with members of the Antioch Rescue Squad for helping to save the lives of the three children of the Charles Cermack family when they and a dog and cat were all found unconscious when oil fumes escaped from a clogged pipe.

The Antioch High School fighting Sequoit basketball team sewed-up the conference title when they beat mighty Palatine High School.

The shoe store and repair shop on Main St., owned by Charles Schroeder, burnt to the ground.

Eggs were selling for 53 cents a dozen and cheddar cheese for 59 cents a pound at the A&P Super Market.

TEN YEARS AGO: Feb. 21, 1973

Oakland Grade School submitted expansion plans to the school board.

Edgar Simonsen retired from his job with the Antioch Public Works Dept.

Bruce Scottberg and Linda Lagerstrom were crowned king and queen of the 4-H "Cupid Affair" dance.

Keith Larsen and John Roberts were top area high school wrestlers.

Zida Vos was commended for her excellent management of the Antioch Mental Health Thrift Shop by members of the mental health association.

Since February is the month of heartfelt love and the Washington and Lincoln kind of truthfulness, old Annie Mae wonders under which of these captions she should list some of the recent quotes, from the mouths of some of our more well-known local personages.

Former Mayor Bob Wilton, about his often-times political opponent, "I think the mayor is doing a fine job!"

First Bank President Pete Clevin, about the new tax on interest "it infers that we the people cannot be trusted by the government we elected to power."

Robert Dennis Letkey, accused burglar of the Old Attic, upon being found inside the closed store, "I guess I was drunk and fell in through the window." (Window is six feet from ground.)

Our budding local Lar Daley, Dan DeFosse, concerning the presidential race, "I'm definitely going to go after the nomination." (This was said two weeks before the announcement that he was not seeking Reagan's seat was released.)

Births

Charles Leroy Miller III

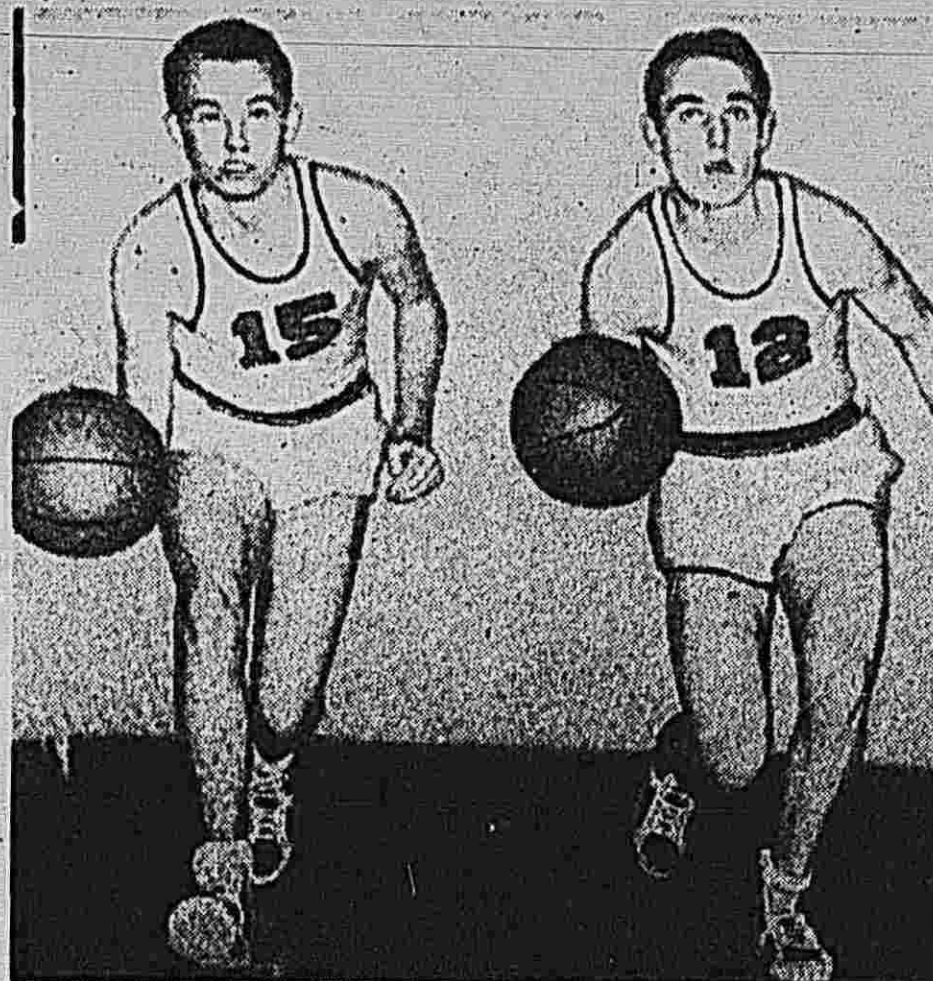

A son, Charles Leroy III, was born Feb. 6 at Lake Forest Hospital to Laura and Charles Miller, Jr., of Antioch. The baby has one brother, Ryan, 4, and one sister, Lace, 3. Maternal grandparents are Susan and Charles Bell of Wildwood. Paternal grandparents are Marilyn and Charles Miller of Gurnee. Great grandmothers are Alice Heatlie of Wildwood and Ruth Solcum of Waukegan.

Come now Mayor, you know you'd be bored!

Susan Groth Slovic has been quite a busy gal since she graduated from Antioch High School four years ago. Not only has she received a degree in psychology from Loyola University, but this energetic gal has gotten herself a husband and baby to boot.

Susan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Groth of Felters Subdivision.

Frosh cagers top in conference

Four more victories were added to the Antioch freshmen boy's basketball record during the last two weeks.

The team record is now 14-4 overall and 11-0 in the Northwest Suburban Conference (NWSC).

The first victory came at Round Lake by a 43-32 score. Dave Grindley and Don Gunther, Antioch's "twin towers," combined for 34 points and 21 rebounds.

Rick Reitmayer grabbed 10 rebounds to help the Sequoits dominate the boards.

Returning home, the Sequoits hosted the Johnsbury Skyhawks. The Skyhawks probably wished they had stayed home as they were outscored, 30-0, in the first half of a 65-19 Antioch romp.

Grindley led the scoring spree with 19 points and Reitmayer and Mike McGrain each added 10 points.

Reitmayer again snared 10 rebounds and Pat Bruks was credited with a fine total of nine assists.

Rob Christensen came off the bench to score eight points for his season high.

The frosh continued to roll at Lake Zurich with a 67-23 win. As a team Antioch shot a sensational 68 percent from the field and 75 percent from the free throw line. Balanced scoring was the story: Grindley, 19; Gunther, 15; Bruks, 10; McGrain, 9; and Reitmayer 8 points.

Gunther had 11 rebounds and Grindley 10. Bruks dished out eight assists and McGrain had six.

The final victory was a come from behind victory over second place Warren by a score of 42-28.

Trailing at half time, the young Sequoits used a tight zone to shut down Warren's offense so that the Blue Devils scored only five points in the final two periods.

McGrain hit four "rain-bow" shots to spark Antioch to the win. McGrain ended up with 10 points and five rebounds.

Gunther had nine points and nine boards, and Bruks eight points and five assists.

INSIGHT INTO EYESIGHT

Dr. R. A. Sona,

OPTOMETRIST

GLAUCOMA'S WARNING SIGNS

Any unusual pressure in the eyes may be a sign of glaucoma. Only early diagnosis and treatment can prevent loss of vision.

Glaucoma is an abnormal eye condition in which the watery fluid that flows through the eye fails to drain as it should. Pressure builds up on the optic nerve. If the pressure continues without relief the optic nerve will be damaged and so will your ability to see well.

In its early stages, glaucoma can be controlled with medication to keep the pressure down. If that doesn't do the job, surgery can be performed to provide another outlet for the fluid.

But glaucoma is an insidious disease. It can sneak up on you without your knowing it and cause serious eye damage before it's discovered. That's another reason why it's so important to have your eyes checked regularly. Your eye doctor is trained to look for signs of any disease as well as structural errors of the eye that cause vision problems.

No one should take chances with his eyesight—especially when early detection of a disease can make a vital difference in saving it.
